Reformation 500

The Life of Martin Luther

David and Mary Wiedenkeller portraying the Luther's.

Reformation with a personal look at the lives of Martin and Katie Luther through historic research of David Wiedenkeller and his wife Mary.

One of the most influential reformers of the early Catholic Church was Martin Luther. Come and listen as he tells about his life from Catholic monk to the father of the Lutheran Church. We will celebrate God's blessings to us through Luther's

Luther's Life of Faith: Faith Comes Alive at Home

In these two sessions, we will explore the life of faith Luther showed especially through his home and through the example that he made available to every home. We will see the spiritual vitality of his relationship with his wife Katie and the atmosphere of faith, generosity and love shown in their home. But we will also see that this was not an isolated life of faith, but Luther through his Bible translation, catechism and other works gave the tools for such a life of faith in the home of all believers.

Rev. Dr. Daniel Paavola, Professor of Theology-CUW

Strength for Your Hammering — Steve Gruenwald, Concordia Plan Services, Worker Wellnes

Martin Luther not only had the strength of character to nail the 95 theses to the church door, but he also had the physical strength to wield the hammer in order to do what was important. Maintaining your muscle strength helps with balance, burning calories, maintaining independence as you age – and doing what's important to you! Learn some exercises designed to increase your muscular strength and range of movement. The exercises will include chair and standing exercises suitable for all fitness levels.

Entertainment - From The Collection – A Sampler Tuesday evening's entertainment will feature Rev. Alan Boeck, retired once, but now serving again, this time at St. Luke in Lyndon Station. "Some folks are great story-tellers; some have an endless file of jokes to share at every occasion," he says. "Some have traveled extensively and actually can keep a group's interest while going through the pictures they took along the way. Me? I collect songs." And he has a "boat load" of them that he is pleased to come and sing with you!
